I HATE
TO COMPLAIN
BUT.....

This brochure contains general information concerning a possible violation on a particular piece of property. Contact the Code Compliance Officer located in the Building Department for specific information.

1. How do I file a complaint?

We must have a written complaint with your name and address, signed by you. We will also ask for the nature of the complaint, the name of the person who owns the property you are complaining about, and directions to the property. Forms may be obtained by contacting the Code Compliance Officer, or on our website.

2. Do you give anyone my name?

The Revised Code of Washington, Title 42.17.310(e) allows you to remain anonymous at your request, if you should so choose.

3. How will you handle the complaint?

- A. We will verify the existence of the alleged violation in the field. Depending on the type of violation, this may be done by a visual analysis, discussions with the owner/occupant, and/or research of existing records.

- B. Determine the next step to be taken, (ie: Certified letter sent, notify other agencies, etc.)
- C. The final step of this phase is to define the corrective measures necessary to eliminate the violation from the property, and to determine an appropriate time frame for the corrective action to take place. The key here and throughout the process is to be flexible in establishing reasonable time frames for correction of the violation.
- D. If the violator is not cooperative and fails to respond to attempts to gain compliance, he/she could be subject to penalties as established in the Klickitat County Code.

Klickitat County has no authority to enforce Covenant Restrictions, or Home Owner's Association.

Please Note: Only the Code Compliance Officer can receive your complaint, and only written, signed complaints can be processed.
